Mooresville, N.C. (May 19, 2010) – Zach Germain, a rookie of the year candidate, is looking forward to the third race of the 2010 NASCAR K&N Pro Series schedule—Iowa Speedway. Since his top-ten finish in his series debut at the season opener competing at South Boston, Germain has picked up a new associate sponsor, JaxWax, and he's made the most of his affiliation with Germain Racing. The Columbus, OH, native travelled as a pit crew member, observed Sprint Cup and Nationwide Series races and logged hours behind the wheel of a racing simulator and a pit stop practice car. Germain is anxious to pull these experiences together when he tightens his belts for the Goodyear Dealers of Iowa 200 NASCAR K&N Pro Series East/West Challenge on May 23rd.

“Iowa’s K&N Pro Series East/West Challenge will be the longest race of my career, so I’m definitely anxious to get the race weekend started. It’s the biggest track I’ve raced on, but I’ve talked to several veteran drivers and they’ve told me that racing there is just about the basics—lift, set, turn, squeeze. Lift the throttle, settle the car in the corner, turn out of the corner and squeeze the accelerator. I’ve got that set of rules racing through my mind along with the best advice my parents can give me—patience,” said Germain, who will race on the 7/8-mile Iowa Speedway for 200 laps.

Before the on-track activity begins, Zach Germain will have a busy week including an appearance at the NASCAR Hall of Fame in Charlotte, N.C., and NASCAR Day Bowling Event.

“After six weeks ‘off’ between the K&N Pro Series races, May has become very busy. This week we have a lot of sponsor and fan visits at our Germain Racing headquarters, and my family will be in town for the NASCAR Hall of Fame Induction Dinner Gala before we travel to Iowa for the race and the NASCAR Day Bowling Challenge at Bass Pro Shops in Altoona. Next week, the excitement continues in the Charlotte area as even more fans and guests visit the shop during the week of the Coca-Cola 600,” said Germain.

During the down-time in the NKNPSE schedule, Germain did his best to keep his focus on racing.

“Our team’s pit coach, Phil Horton, set me up with some opportunities to drive a pit stop practice car that has a manual transmission. We’ve been to pit road in the Germain.com Camry already this season, and I think the experience we had at Greenville was great preparation, but driving that car, and working with the racing simulator helped keep me focused on racing,” said Germain.

Germain added Columbus-based JaxWax to his No. 24 Germain.com Camry, which will featured an updated paint scheme starting at Iowa.

“I’m very happy thankful to have JaxWax join the team. The timing is great because we just updated the Germain.com Camry to match the No. 30 Germain.com Tundra. The new paint job adds a high gloss finish which will need JaxWax to keep it bright,” said Germain.

Zach Germain races the No. 24 Germain.com Camry Sunday, May 23rd, at 4:00 PM ET at Iowa Speedway. Qualifying is at 1:00 PM. Sunday’s race will air on SPEED on Thursday, May 27th at 1:00 PM ET.

Germain Racing is a championship-winning organization competing in all three of NASCAR’s national series. The team adds the K&N Pro Series East No. 24 Germain.com Camry to its lineup this year, and may add K&N Pro Series West and late model races. Sponsorship and branding opportunities are available.
